

PARIS INVADED BY BIG STORM

Snow Has Fallen to a Considerable Depth During Blizzard.

TRAINS ARE STALLED
ALL ALONG THE WAY

There Is Much Misery from
Lack of Coal and Transportation Difficulties

Paris, Nov. 15.—A blizzard struck the Paris region last night. Six to ten inches of snow fell and the storm continues with unabated violence. The central markets are practically deserted, surface transport and taxi services have been virtually tied up and trains from the provinces are arriving hours late. Some trains from the north have been stalled all along the way. Telephone and telegraph communication with Spain has been interrupted.

This is the earliest blizzard on record in Paris, adding greatly to the discomfort and misery from lack of coal and the transportation difficulties.

MISSING POSTMASTER WANTED.

W. Ray Whitney, Formerly of Franklin, Said to Have Obtained Over $2,000.

Police headquarters throughout the state are receiving notifications of the desire of the postoffice department for the arrest of W. Ray Whitney, formerly postmaster at Franklin, in this state. It is claimed that Whitney absconded on Sept. 29, and that he has absconded the money order account and issued money orders, usually for $100, payable to himself and others, upon which he fraudulently obtained $2,000 to $3,000.

Whitney was employed for a short time as a volunteer policeman at Boston, during the recent police strike in that city, and no doubt talks freely of that experience. He has not turned in his police badge and club. He has a weakness for gambling in stocks, and frequents the offices of stock brokers; has worked on farm, in grocery store, and dealt in furs. An inveterate cigarette smoker. He is a Mason.

JUDGE HAND REFUSES TO GRANT INJUNCTION

Restraining Government from the Enforcement of the War-Time Prohibition in New York.

New York, Nov. 15.—Federal Judge Learned Hand refused yesterday to grant injunctions restraining enforcement of the Volstead prohibition act.

Jacob Rupper, a brewer for whom Elihu Root was counsel, sought an injunction so that sale of 2.75 per cent beer might be resumed. Dryfoos, Plummer & Co., in another petition sought permission to remove distilled spirits from bond.

"I hold that the war-time prohibition act remains a valid exercise of the congressional power," Judge Hand said in his decision. "Though the sole justification of the war-time prohibition act be to prohibit the sale of intoxicants, it may be impossible ever to accomplish that without all kinds of beer."

FORMER SLAVE DEAD.

"Jake" Cartledge Enlisted with North in Civil War to Help Free His People.

Brattleboro, Nov. 12.—Jacob Cartledge, a negro who was once a slave in the South, but for 40 years had been a resident of this place, died Wednesday in the Brattleboro retreat of arterio sclerosis. He had been an inmate there about five years, after he became unable to look out for himself.

"Jack" was maltreated by his master in his home town in Georgia and in company with other slaves he escaped from him through an underground tunnel, hiding for three weeks in a coal mine. Then he ventured forth and found his way to Pennsylvania, where he became a farm hand.

His desire to see slavery ended led him to volunteer in the Civil war, and he enlisted in Pennsylvania and served as a private in Co. D, 43d United States colored infantry, March 23, 1864, for three years, but he was honorably discharged at Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 30, 1865, a part of one heel having been shot away. The records of the war department indicate that he was 74 years old, but he is generally thought to have been several years older.

After living again in Pennsylvania for a few years, he came to Brattleboro 40 years ago, where he worked about town. He drew a pension of $38 a month and at one time he had several hundred dollars in a savings bank, but it gradually dwindled away and some of it fell into the hands of unscrupulous persons who took advantage of him.

Of late, Henry J. Allen of Canal street has been his guardian.

VALUABLE CATTLE POISONED.

Brattleboro Man Has Lost Several Valued at About $2,000.

Brattleboro, Nov. 15.—Nine registered Holstein cattle owned by Arthur E. Clapp of Brattleboro were poisoned this week by eating pyrex and seven have died. The two remaining are in charge of a veterinarian and it is expected that they will live. The animals were cows and heifers and were valued at upwards of $2,000.

At the last planting season Mr. Clapp put four acres of potatoes on the Wilder farm, and during the summer the vines were sprayed with pyrex. As Mr. Clapp understands it, the receptacle in which the pyrex was carried was left in the field, with some of the poison in it.

A few days ago some of the cattle were turned into the pasture where the potato field was and in that way got hold of the pyrex.

RADICAL HUNT IS KEPT UP

Raids on I. W. W. and Others Produce Many More Prisoners

VARIOUS CHARGES ARE TO BE BROUGHT

In Some Places the School Children Were Objects of Propaganda

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Raids on Industrial Workers of the World and other radical organizations begun as the result of the killing of four former service men at Centralia, Wash., last Tuesday, continued during the night up and down the Pacific coast. As a result of these raids scores of additional prisoners were in custody to-day.

Some of them face charges of criminal syndicalism, some of inciting to riot, and others of vagrancy. Three alleged members of the radical order sustained injuries in one raid which necessitated their removal to a hospital.

At Los Angeles a number of former service men broke into Industrial Workers of the World headquarters, cut and bruised with clubs three men and wrecked the place before the police could respond to a riot call.

In San Francisco the "People's Institute" and I. W. W. headquarters were raided by the police and nine men held in default of $1,000 bond on the charges of vagrancy.

The raids followed receipt of information, the police said, that school children were visiting the People's institute and obtaining radical literature which they carried home. Police Captain O'Meara, who conducted the raids, said all Industrial Workers of the World must leave San Francisco or go to jail.

At Eureka, local headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World was raided by the police and a large quantity of radical literature seized. John Golden, secretary, was arrested and charged with criminal syndicalism and sabotage. He was held in the county jail with Charles Lesse and Henry Gilks, arrested in Arcata on a syndicalism charge. At Seattle, Henry White, commissioner of immigration, made a formal announcement that alien Industrial Workers of the World rounded up at Centralia, Wash., as a result of the shooting of former service men on armistice day, would be deported if they were not held on murder charges by the county authorities. Fifty-three members of the I. W. W. were taken into custody by Seattle police in several raids and at Raymond, Wash., 11 others were arrested by a citizens' committee.

Near Centralia, former service men, acting for county officials, gathered up about 50 alleged Industrial Workers, mainly in logging camps. These included a man giving his name as George Lester, and his wife Katherine. The police said he gave much valuable information.

Spokane, Wash., officials spent last night in a state of preparedness against a threatened "invasion" by Industrial Workers of the World from Montana, Idaho, and other parts of the northwest. Members of the American Legion informed local officials they had information that from 1,000 to 2,000 Industrial Workers were on the way to Spokane. As a result, a conference of legion members, civil officials and officers of the National Guard was held, following which more than 100 former service men were sworn in as special deputy sheriffs and two companies of the Washington National Guard were mobilized.

Incoming trains were watched closely and two alleged members of the radical order taken into custody. No others were observed entering the city, however.

What connection, if any, a meeting of Industrial workers scheduled to be held in Cumberland, a mining town in the western part of Washington, tomorrow night had with the reports of an "invasion" was not established. Coal miners are on strike there and one report was that the Industrial Workers were taking advantage of a miners' meeting to hold a gathering on their own account.

BRATTLEBORO STILL IN CASE.

For Suit Asking the Removal of Richards Bradley as Trustee.

Brattleboro, Nov. 15.—Brattleboro remains as a party with the Society of Seamstresses, Needlewomen and Shopgirls in the petition filed in Boston asking for the removal of Richards Bradley as one of the trustees of the Thompson estate.

This question was decided yesterday at a hearing before the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in Boston.

The trustees, Mr. Bradley and John F. Moors, had filed a motion to have the town of Brattleboro eliminated as a party, and arguments on the motion were made to-day.

Attorney Arthur P. Carpenter of Brattleboro argued for the town and Attorney Stoughton Bell of the Boston law firm of Putnam, Putnam & Bell, appeared in support of the motion, which the court denied.

There was also a hearing yesterday before the supreme judicial court in the motion of the trustees to have the court order that the petitioners for removal of Mr. Bradley file with the court a statement of particulars with reference to the various allegations made against the trustees. In other words the trustees want the petitioners to be obliged to give them all the facts in their possession as to names of persons whom the trustees have not assisted with the Thompson fund in an adequate manner, names of those who have been made to feel that they were objects of charity in asking assistance, dates when such acts are alleged to have taken place and things of that kind.

In this matter Attorney Bell argued for the trustees and Attorney Frank E. Barber of the firm of Barber, Barber & Miller of Brattleboro, and Attorney Frank N. May of Bates, May, Abbott and Dane of Boston argued for the town and the society of sewing women.

The court rendered no decision on this phase of the case, taking the matter under consideration.
